

BAHÁ'U'LLÁH

For the past one hundred years, more and more people have been trying to find the answer to the world's problems. They know that a way must be found for the different countries to learn to live and work together.

There was one Person who knew the answer and His Name was Bahá'u'lláh. For thousands of years all the religions had prophesied that God would send One Who would bring peace to the world. Through Bahá'u'lláh, God gave teachings that will unite the whole world.

Millions of people from every race, culture, class and nation have become Bahá'ís and are now united. They represent the whole human race and can be found in every country.

Bahá'u'lláh's Writings cover many subjects. As well as telling us how different races can live happily together, how men and women are equal, and how to get rid of weapons of war, they also describe things which help the soul of man to grow and develop. These Writings have been translated into over eight hundred languages so everyone can read them.
