

The Trumpet and the Double Bass

Vahid and Sam lived next door to each other. Vahid played the double bass and liked to practise all evening.

Sam played the trumpet and liked to practise too. But he could not concentrate because Vahid was making such a lot of noise.

Vahid wasn't pleased either because the trumpet was spoiling his music.

Then Sam had a good idea. He took his trumpet and his music and knocked on Vahid's door. "We could play together," he said.

And that is what they did. They enjoyed their music and had a lovely time together too.

Bahá'u'lláh said:

"If any differences arise amongst you, behold Me standing before your face, and overlook the faults of one another for My name's sake....."