Bahá'u'lláh
also told us that the Bahá'ís
must elect
nine men to become the members of the Universal House of Justice.

Then they must always turn to them to be guided in what they do.

The first kind of Covenant is that God will always help us and will not leave us without His love and guidance.

The symbol of this Covenant (agreement) is the rainbow.

The Covenant is an agreement between God and men.
God has made two kinds of Covenant with us.

Bahá'u'lláh said,
"It is incumbent upon all to be obedient to them."

God will always send His Messengers to show us how to behave, so that we can live the fullest, happiest, most productive lives possible, for the good of everyone.
